

Organizing for Change

Women's Tribunals as Civil Society Advocacy

Women for Climate
Justice

Rio +20

in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

Fact: Women bear the brunt of ecological and environmental degradation.

Fact: Despite this alarming reality, women voices, and in particular rural and indigenous women, grassroots and impoverished urban women, are not being heard in the corridors of decision-making venues, and women's needs are not being fully addressed in the climate change and sustainability debates at all levels.

This session will present how women have elevated their voices within the climate justice debate, featuring the methodology of the women's tribunal on gender and climate justice.

Thursday, June 21st
17:30- 19:00 · Barra Arena, Room UN6

Organizers & Tribunal Partners: Feminist Task Force, Global Call to Action against Poverty (GCAP), Nigeria: Niger Delta Women's Movement for Peace & Development, Humanitarian Organization for Poverty Eradication and Environment (HOPE-Pk), Jagaran Nepal, SIGLO XXIII Culture of Peace Movement-El Salvador, GCAP Mexico/Ciudadanos en Contra de la Disigualdad, Ciudadao Global, Bordadeiras da Coroa/ Articulacao de Mulheres Brasileiras and Vera Neri, Instituto Baobab, SINTRASEF, Instituto Equit - Gênero, Economia, Loretto at the UN, Ohio Valley Environmental Coalition, Civil Society Institute, Eco-Justice Collaborative, Citizens Against Ruining the Environment (CARE), and Pilsen Environmental Rights and Reform Organization (PERRO).

In partnership with Greenpeace International/ GP Netherlands

feminist task force